All Natural Non-Toxic Bedding and Outdoor Flea Repellent Recipe

Introduction

You MUST make certain that the bedding and other frequented areas are free of fleas otherwise when your clean, de-flead dog returns to the areas it likes to spend time in, the fleas will be there waiting! Once we have taken care of this then you and I can truly rest easy happy in the knowledge that all is well with our companion again!

Follow These Steps

1. Wash the dog’s sheets/bedding.

2. Put 100mls eucalyptas, citronella or teatree oil in a sink basin with a dash of vinegar to emulsify the oil (otherwise the oil will float on top of the water and will not mix) and enough water so that the bedding is thoroughly soaked.

3. Hang out the sheets/bedding to dry without rinsing.

4. Repeat this process once a month.

5. If your dog also spends time sitting or sleeping on the back door mat for example, then do the same with the mat.

6. If your dog spends time in the same spots of the back yard or garden, then make up a solution in a watering can and soak this area as well.

7. For paved areas, sprinkle salt between the bricks to kill the fleas.

WARNING: NEVER put straight oil on your animal because it can be toxic and can even kill cats and small dogs.
